

Use of Cookies

We use cookies to provide a more robust and functional browsing experience. Cookies are small files saved on your computer that are used by websites for purposes including: remembering your preferences and anonymously tracking site usage.

For users linking from our website to Merlin, Cookies enable us to identify when you have logged in to Merlin. We use cookies that are strictly necessary to enable you to navigate around Merlin and to provide certain basic features including data views relevant to you and your role. We use cookies to enhance your experience of the service by storing information about your session. We also use cookies to help us monitor and improve the performance of our services to ensure you're provided with an optimal experience.

We don't store personally identifiable information in cookies. We don't sell the information collected by cookies. We don't disclose any information to third parties, except where required by law (for example to government bodies and law enforcement agencies).

If you wish to control the cookies that are set in your browser or on your device please refer to the help files that accompany your browser or device. Please note that disabling cookies may affect the functionality, performance or presentation of our service.